

TAG QUESTIONS

grammar overview

- ❖ A tag question is tiny question at the end of a sentence. We use tag questions to ask for confirmation from the listener(s). They mean "Is what I've just said right?" "Do you agree?"
- ❖ If you want to form tag questions you should use "a negative tag question" after a positive sentence and "a positive tag question" after a negative sentence.
- ❖ When you form tag questions you use auxiliary verbs and pronouns of the sentence.

Examples:

1. You are hungry, aren't you?
2. The weather will be rainy, won't it?
3. She can't speak French, can she?
4. She doesn't visit her relatives much, does she?
5. He drives fast, doesn't he?

Note: Study the special cases below.

1. I'm overweight, aren't I?
2. Let's have a break, shall we?
3. Help me with the housework, will you? or Help me with the housework, can you?
